

Guidelines for Topical Discussions

TD1.2. Mainstreaming Walking: A Policy Imperative

11:00 - 12:30 Tuesday, 7th October, 2025 | Location: Yellow (Cinema)

This session examines how walking can be embedded as a central element of urban policy, highlighting efforts to advance walkability through coordinated strategies, data-driven analysis, and collaborative governance. From mapping regional policies across Latin America and the Caribbean to city-level initiatives in Oslo, Milan, and German municipalities, the discussion showcases how different contexts are driving a stronger policy imperative for walking as part of sustainable urban development.
